Chandler News Notes

BAPTISTS TO BUILD
Work will start shortly after September 1 on a church building, 30 by 40, to be located on Boston and California streets. The office will cost $1000 and will be a frame structure. W. P. Pleasant has the contract.

The money was raised mostly on subscription, the Baptist Missionary Board donating $200 of the amount. At present the Baptists in this vicinity number about twenty. Rev. Mr. Coxey of Tempe will hold a series of protracted meetings here in a large tent in order to augment the membership.

The work of raising the money for the church is almost entirely due to the efforts of D. W. Coffman and Mrs. R. W. Winger. It is planned to have the building ready for service by Sept. 15. With the completion of this edifice three denominations will have homes of their own, the others being the Methodists and the Lutheran. A peculiar fact in connection with this statement is that all three churches are practically out of debt, but a small amount being due on the L. D. S. structure.

At a meeting of Chandler local of the Farmers' Union last Saturday the following resolution was passed:
Resolved: That Chandler Local No. 1, F. E. & C. U. of A., respectfully invites the Farm Improvement association to form an organization in the Chandler district. Feeling that such an association is desired by a number of the farmers of this district and that the discussions and addresses of the professors from the state experimental station would be of vast interest to all, this union earnestly desires that such an organization be formed here.

Messrs. W. H. Tripp, C. W. McCally and S. A. Meyer were appointed a committee to draft the above and send copies to the county farm advisor and the state university.

It was decided to forego holding meetings the balance of the summer and the next regular session will be held early in October. Geo. R. Johnson in a short talk on markets and co-operation said the farmers should make an effort to induce the Water Users' association to take up the marketing end, as he felt such an organization could secure results for the ranchers, who comprised that association.

Music and Drama

Holy Imam discovered them in a rose-bower atop the high garden wall but the alert Omar managed to smuggle his sweetheart over the wall without her father learning of her identity.

Thinking that Omar had been consorting with a hazy woman of the bazarra, Imam banished the poet from his presence forever. Before he left Omar shared a farewell vessel of wine with his two closest boy friends, Nizam and Hassan. As he lifted the cup Nizam proposed his pledge, "Whatever fortune comes to one of us throughout the years shall be shared by all."

That same evening Shirreen pledged to Omar her undying love and he averred his eternal devotion. On the morrow Shirreen started on her journey to the harem of the Shah of Shahs. Omar sallied forth into the wide world beyond Imam's garden.

Eighteen years rolled by. To Shirreen a child had been born, but the Shah discovering that it was not his child, had cast her far out on the desert. There she had been rescued by a roving band of marauders who forced her to join their roistering numbers. Meanwhile Omar had settled in the busy city of Naisapur, where he spasmodically followed his profession of tentmaking, although much more time he devoted to expounding his startling philosophical deductions in the taverns and in writing and reciting lifting quat-

FORD CHECKS GO OUT TO 10,000 EACH DAY

DETROIT, Aug. 28.—These are busy days—particularly busy days—at the Ford Motor company's administration building. Checks—each for $50—are going out to more than 300,000 Ford owners who by purchasing their cars between August, 1914, and August, 1915 participate in Ford profits to the aggregate of more than $15,000,000. The disbursement is in itself rather a stupendous task. The checks are being mailed at the rate of about 10,000 a day.

A large and distinct organization has been arranged to complete this task. When the profit sharing plan for Ford owners was announced August 1, 1914, a department to handle the details was installed in the Ford administration building. For several weeks now a large corps of stenographers has been filling in the 30,000 names in the checks. These names are taken from the original bills of sale.

The work of signing more than 300,000 checks itself offered a problem. Each check carries the signature of one of the three assistant cashiers and one of the most inveterate scribbler might easily develop writer's cramp and grow exceedingly tired of his own name without some device to lighten his labor. There are five checks to a sheet and by a single operation of the pen these five checks are signed simultaneously.

STORY of the MERCHANT PRINCE

There was an old geezer and he had a lot of sense; He started up a business on a dollar-eighty cents. The dollar for stock and the eighty for an ad. Brought him three lovely collars in a day, by dad! Well, he bought more goods and a little more space And he played that system with a smile on his face. The customers flocked to his two-by-four And soon he had to hustle for a regular store Up on the square, where the people pass, He gobbled up a corner that was all plate glass. He fixed up the windows with the best that he had And he told 'em all about it in a half-page ad. He soon had 'em coming, and he never, never quit, And he wouldn't cut down his ads one bit. Well, he's kept things humming in the town ever since, And everybody calls him the Merchant Prince.

Some say it's luck, but that's all bunk— Why, he was doing business when the times were punk. People have to purchase and the geezer was wise— For he knew the way to get 'em was to advertise.
